Budapest, August, 2015
Dear incoming Doctoral Student,

It is a pleasure to welcome you to the PhD Program in Political Science at the Central European University.

Our doctoral program is one of the largest in the discipline in Europe and aims to help students like you to become internationally competitive scholars with a wide range of skills that are valued in and beyond the academia. In order to achieve this, you will take courses in theory and methodology that are organized in very small classes specifically for doctoral students. You can take advantage of a wide range of optional training opportunities and participate at high-level international conferences, spend a semester abroad at another university, gain teaching experience, and, above all, produce a significant piece of original research: your dissertation.

The PhD Program is run by the Doctoral School of Political Science, Public Policy, and International Relations (the ‘Doctoral School’, or ‘DSPS’). The Doctoral School is formed by three academic units: (1) the Department of Political Science, (2) the Department of International Relations, and (3) the School of Public Policy. Faculty members from all these units are involved in teaching and researching various aspects of political science, as well as in the supervision of doctoral students. In this handbook you can find useful information about the forthcoming academic year, the structure of the PhD Program, requirements, coursework, and dates to mark in your calendar. Please read it carefully.

We would like to warmly welcome you as an important new member of our community, and we are looking forward to meeting you at CEU.

Xymena Kurowska, Doctoral School Director
Carsten Schneider, Head of the Department of Political Science
Matteo Fumagalli, Head of the Department of International Relations
Nick Sitter, PhD director of the School of Public Policy
The structure of the PhD Program

The PhD program is based on a system of ‘tracks’. There are five of them: Comparative Politics, Political Theory, Political Economy, International Relations, and Public Policy. Each of the tracks is supervised by a so-called Track Representative, a member of the faculty who is responsible for the coherence of his or her respective track. Having five tracks within the PhD program means three things. First, that if you successfully complete your studies, you, as a student registered in the Doctoral School, will be awarded a PhD in Political Science. Second, that you will also have a specialization (or ‘major’) in a particular track. The tracks represent academic fields/sub-fields or research areas that reflect the major strengths and interests of the three units constituting the Doctoral School. Third, that all students of the School, regardless of their tracks of belonging, are part of the same academic community.

During the time when you receive stipend you will be required to take a number of courses (each course is normally worth 2 or 4 credits), for a total of 24 credits. The minimum number of credits you must earn in the first academic year is 18.
The mandatory credits include:

14 credits from your major track. Out of these 14 credits, 12 credits belong to the core curriculum of the track. These credits have to be taken in the first academic year.

The 2 additional credits of the track fall in the category of ‘Advanced Topics’ and may change in content from year to year. Exceptionally, the Track Representative may allow the student to replace the advanced topic course with a methods course. These credits can be taken either in the first or the second academic year.

6 credits from the methods sequence. Given the importance of a sound methodological education, all first year students are required to take the 4-credit ‘Methods and Research Design’ course in the Fall semester and a 2-credit ‘Prospectus Seminar’ in the Winter Semester.

4 credits from courses taken from a different track. These courses might come from another track, or from methods courses. If the student collects at least 8 credits from a track other than her/his own, he or she becomes entitled to a ‘minor’. Students may postpone such courses to the second academic year.
Having fulfilled the minimal credit requirements of the PhD Program, Doctoral Candidates can freely register - and are encouraged to register - for any course offered in the PhD program. Starting from the second year, Doctoral Candidates are also welcome to enroll in any other course offered at the Central European University. The upper limit of such external courses is six credits per semester, unless the PhD Director grants a special permission.

Students must have a cumulative grade point average (GPA) of 3.33 (B+) in the courses taken for credit.

PhD Candidacy

Students in the first year of the Doctoral Program are referred to as Probationary Doctoral Candidates. After successfully completing the comprehensive exams but before submitting their PhD dissertation they are referred to as Doctoral Candidates.

The PhD dissertation should be submitted for evaluation and defense no later than six years after the doctoral student was enrolled to the program. A candidate may request permission from the Doctoral Committee to withdraw from the Doctoral Program for a period of up to 2 years, thus extending his or her six year limit.

Supervision

At the beginning of the first year personal consultations between the Probationary Doctoral Candidates and their Temporary Supervisor (mentor) and the Track Representative, as well as a series of meetings between faculty and doctoral students will help each new doctoral student to compile a study plan. The study plan lists the courses the students intends to follow during the first year.
The studies during PhD candidacy are based on individual research guided and monitored by the candidate’s Doctoral Supervisory Panel. The Doctoral Supervisory Panel will be set up after the end of the first year. The representative of the chosen track and the mentor will assist the student in the choice of the main supervisor. Taking into account the research topic, the Track Representative’s and the candidate’s indication, and based on faculty availability, the Doctoral Committee shall appoint a prospective thesis supervisor to the Probationary Doctoral Candidates before the end of the Winter semester. After the successful comprehensive examination the Committee revisits and finalizes the list of supervisors. The main supervisor is responsible for communicating with his or her supervisee on an ongoing basis.

The Comprehensive Examination

Towards the end of the first year, PhD Probationary Doctoral Candidates are required to take a comprehensive examination, consisting of two parts: (1) the submission of the prospectus, and (2) an oral exam. This year the deadline for the submission of the prospectus is 27 May, while the oral examination is scheduled for the end of June.

For the examination students have to submit a list of scholarly references that are important for the subfield in which their planned thesis is situated. Students need to consult two faculty members about their reference list, which is also to be approved by the Track Representative. Each student’s reference list will form the basis for his or her oral exam, during which the student will be asked questions about the readings as well as the connection of these readings with the PhD project.
The Prospectus

Students will be required to submit their written prospectus by the end of May.

The prospectus should include arguments about the feasibility of the proposed research, the coherence and suitability of the theoretical, methodological and empirical (if any) components of the thesis, and an assessment of the contribution that the thesis will make to the field. Students will receive written evaluation for their prospectus from each member of the exam committee after the oral exam part of the Comprehensive Examination. The grade for the prospectus will be based primarily on the written prospectus, but will also be based on the student’s oral defense of the prospectus during the oral exam.

In order to be admitted to the second year of the program, you will have to earn a "B+" course grade average for the mandatory and core courses and a "B+" grade or higher at both parts of the comprehensive examination (the prospectus and the oral exam). The admission to the program as a probationary candidate is no guarantee that you advance to doctoral candidate status. Doctoral candidates are expected to work on their doctoral dissertation full-time, to be in residence in Budapest, and to play an active role in the academic life of the department and the Doctoral School.
Further requirements

Research Seminars

Above the regular course work students must attend research seminars, usually organized by one of the School’s constituting units, by the School, by the research centers affiliated with the School, or by the voluntary student-faculty workshops, spanning across the Fall and Winter semesters. All first year students are obliged to present their research projects in the Research Seminar once during the first semester of their PhD studies. (Schedule differs for tracks and will be announced.)

Some of the sessions will be dedicated to the faculty’s work in progress and to presentations by non-CEU scholars. The rest of the sessions will discuss contributions by Doctoral Candidates associated with the department who already passed their comprehensive exam. All Doctoral Students are expected to present at the research seminars at least twice before submitting their dissertation for defense.

Annual Doctoral Conference

Participation at the next Annual Doctoral Conference (ADC) is mandatory for all students who advanced to PhD candidacy. PhD candidates have to submit a proposal for the ADC every year, and their acceptance to the conference will be decided on a competitive basis. First-year students are exempt from this requirement due to their course workload.
